

Day in the Life of a Dog

By: Chase Watson

This is Lief, he's a black Labrador who favorite thing is food. Here's a good representation of the eyes he will give you while you're eating.

Lief otherwise known as Beef will give you the biggest sad eyes when you dont feed him that small piece of cheese or granola bar. He lays down and pouts until you give him attention.

After you tell him straight he's fat, he will get over the fact he wasn't fed and will climb all over you for affection and attention. He loves his mom.

After dinner he loves his nightly walk. You can't see his tail because its wagging so fast.

After his nightly walk he loves to relax out on the grass and chill. Lief is an amazing dog, there's nothing in the world I would trade for him.
